

CHAPTER V:

Conclusion and Suggestions

This chapter is to answer whether the analysis answers the statement of the problem or not. There are two parts in this chapter. The first one is the conclusion of the thesis. The second one is some suggestions.

5.1 Conclusion

This thesis is conducted to analyse the personal relationship between the characters in Robert Frost's 'The Death of the Hired Man.' Here, the writer analysed the dialog between Warren and Mary talking about Silas who had just returned to their farm. From the analysis, he makes conclusion as people can see below.

The first analysis is discussing about the personal relationship between Warren and Silas. Their relationship is not expected by people. It is seen that they have so many conflicts. The worst conflict is that Silas always leaves Warren when Warren needs him most. Their conflict ends by the death of the hired man, Silas in the end of the poem.

The second analysis is discussing about the personal relationship between Mary and Silas. From the discussion, it is clearly seen that their relationship is expected by anyone needing help. Mary is always nice to Silas and willing to take care of him. She can still accept him after what he has done to Warren. Silas thinks that Mary is the one whom he can talk with.

The third is the analysis of Silas and a young college boy named Harold Wilson. Their personal relationship is to show and prove their own cleverness. Silas thinks that Harold is just a boy that does not know anything. Then, he underestimates Harold. Harold himself is actually a clever boy. He tries to make Warren know that he can do more than Silas thinks.

The next one is the analysis of the relationship between Silas and his brother. Silas and his brother have maintaining self-esteem personal relationship. Both of them are very stubborn. His brother is a rich man working as director in a bank. Despite that, he does not want to take Silas into his house because he thinks that Silas does not deserve to be in his house. He thinks that he is rich, but Silas is poor. Silas himself does not want to be in his brother house. It is because even though he is poor, he does not want to do silly thing just make his brother pleased.

The last one is about Warren and Mary's relationship. Their relationship is fine because of their understanding each other. It makes them keep together as husband and wife.

The relationships between the characters have been discussed. The writer concludes that statement of the problem is answered. The reader can know the personal relationship between the characters in the discussions.

5.2. Suggestions

The writer wants to give some suggestions related to the making of this thesis. He is willing to make the reader understand more about analysing a poem. The suggestions can be read below.

Reading literary works such as novels, short story, poem and other literary works is educative and entertaining. It is educative because someone can get many new things about the language or even values that are found in the literary work. He can also know about the way the writer of the literary work think. It is entertaining because hen is about to be given a story or condition of something that can stimulate our brain to give response of how the literary work is.

Students should be encouraged to analyse the deep meaning of a poem. By analysing the deep meaning, they can enrich their knowledge about language. Besides, they can understand completely about the poem.

The writer also has suggestions for the reader who wants to write thesis about poem. He should be really interested in the subject he is about to analyse. He will enjoy working the thesis if he is really interested in the subject. Therefore, he will work more maximally.
